INTRODUCTION

Microlog: Canadian Research Index puts all of Canada's hard-to-find government and research literature at your fingertips. This monthly indexing, abstracting and document delivery service covers all levels of government in Canada, as well as institutions receiving research grants. Most titles included in Microlog are available in either paper or microfiche format. Combined with a microfiche collection, the Microlog Service is a powerful tool for finding Canadian report publications. The unique Microlog Accession Number is the key to immediate retrieval of any document.

SCOPE

Among other documents, Microlog includes research papers in physical, natural and social sciences, policy papers, important statistics, and annual reports. Every effort is made to ensure the currency of the index. For instance, documents appearing in the Checklist of Canadian Government Publications are delivered by Microlog approximately two months after publication of the list.

LANGUAGE POLICY

Documents issued in English or French are indexed and abstracted in the language of publication, while bilingual documents are indexed and abstracted in both languages.

SOURCES AND COVERAGE

Federal Documents: The Microlog editors review all checklists issued by the Canadian Government Publishing Centre and order every document relevant to the service. Except for serials, maps, pamphlets, and manuals, all monographs covered by the Federal Depository Plan are included in the index. Also, a special effort is made to track down elusive but important titles which do not appear in the lists.

Microlog offers a special collection of documents published by the Federal Government but not issued through the Federal Depository Plan. These titles, available to subscribers as the Non-Depository Publications collection, are indicated in the Titles section by a bullet (•). Microlog is also the direct distributing agent for many government bodies.

Provincial Documents: Depository arrangements with several provincial libraries have been established to ensure that Microlog subscribers receive all publications from those provinces. Where no depository arrangement exists, all publications lists issued by the province are reviewed for acquisitions.

Municipal Documents: Since these titles are very difficult to obtain, the Microlog editors make special efforts to include publications from municipal sources.

ACCESS

The Index provides access by subject, corporate or individual author, and series title.

The full Microlog file from 1979 to date, consisting of almost 50,000 records, is available online through Can/OLE. This is an ideal way to locate hard-to-find reports which may then be ordered directly online through the Can/DOCS service. Contact: Can/OLE Client Services, CISTI, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0S2.

FEATURES

Microlog comprises the following sections:

1. Titles and abstracts: A full bibliographic citation and a descriptive abstract for each title.
2. Name Index: Access by personal author, corporate author, and conference name.
3. Series Titles: Lists by title and number all reports in series in the service; series are available as an ongoing subscription or retrospective collection.
4. Subject Index: Descriptors based on Library of Congress and Canadiana Subject Headings are assigned to each document. A cross-referencing structure assists searchers.
5. Microfiche collections: Lists contents of each fiche collection for quick reference. These collections can be used as current awareness lists in broad subject areas to notify users of new acquisitions. This section is included in the annual cumulation as a separate fiched product.

MICROLOG AND CANADIAN STATISTICS INDEX

Statistical Material: The Canadian Statistics Index (CSI) provides further access to statistical material contained in Microlog monographs and special or annual reports. The CSI identification number has been included with the Microlog citation for the convenience of subscribers to the CSI fiche collection.

Annual Reports: Storage of annual reports in a single sequence has been a problem for clients in the past. The CSI numbers for annual reports are now listed in the bibliographic citation and appear on the microfiche header of each report, to make such sequencing possible.

DOCUMENT DELIVERY

Institutions may subscribe to complete or partial collections of the documents in Microlog. Individual copies on microfiche or paper reprint may be ordered through Micromedia's Document Delivery Service. To order, please contact:

INTRODUCTION

Microlog: Index de recherche du Canada met à votre disposition toutes les publications du gouvernement et les travaux de recherche difficiles à se procurer. Combiné aux collections sur microfiches, le service Microlog constitue un outil très efficace pour retrouver les publications des différents gouvernements du Canada, ainsi que celles des organismes qui reçoivent des subventions pour la recherche. Microlog est aussi un service de livraison de documents, sur microfiches ou sous forme imprimée.

CONTENU

Microlog contient entre autres des recherches en sciences physiques, naturelles et sociales, des énoncés de politique, des statistiques et des rapports annuels. Par l'intermédiaire du service Microlog, on peut obtenir les documents qui figurent sur la Liste des publications du gouvernement du Canada environ deux mois après leur parution sur cette liste.

POLITIQUE LINGUISTIQUE

Les ouvrages publiés en français ou en anglais sont indexés et résumés dans la langue de publication; les ouvrages bilingues sont traités dans les deux langues.

SOURCES

Publications fédérales: Les rédacteurs de Microlog examinent les listes émises par le Centre d'édition du gouvernement du Canada et commandent les documents pertinents. En dehors des publications en série, cartes, brochures et manuels, toutes les monographies régies par le Programme de dépôt du gouvernement fédéral figurent dans l'index, ainsi que des ouvrages importants ne figurant pas sur les listes.

Microlog propose aussi une collection spéciale de publications fédérales non déposées, identifiées par un point (•) dans la section Titres et résumés. Microlog est aussi l'agent de diffusion de nombreux organismes gouvernementaux.

Publications municipales: Ces ouvrages étant difficiles à se procurer, les rédacteurs de Microlog redoublent d'ardeur pour les inclure dans l'index.

ACCÈS

L'index imprimé est bilingue et les publications sont répertoriées par sujet, par auteur (collectivité et personne physique) et par titre de collection.

Le fichier complet de Microlog, de 1979 à aujourd'hui, contient près de 50,000 notices et est accessible sur

Can/OLE. Il s'agit d'un moyen idéal pour mettre la main sur des rapports difficiles à trouver qu'on peut commander par l'intermédiaire du service Can/DOCS. À ce propos, veuillez vous adresser au Service à la clientèle Can/OLE, ICIST, Ottawa (Ontario), K1A 0S2.

ORGANISATION DE L'INDEX

Microlog est divisé en cinq sections:

1. Titres et résumés: tous les titres sont catalogués et accompagnés d'un résumé descriptif.

2. Index des noms: donne un accès par auteur, collectivité-auteur et titre de conférence.

3. Titres de collections: tous les rapports publiés en série sont classés par titre et numéro. Ces collections peuvent être commandées individuellement.

4. Index des matières: les descripteurs permettent de trouver facilement les publications pertinentes; un réseau de renvois facilite la recherche.

5. Collections de microfiches: chaque collection apparaît dans une section séparée pour faciliter la recherche. Ces listes peuvent aussi servir à renseigner les usagers sur les nouveautés. Dans la refonte, cette section est insérée sous forme de microfiches.

MICROLOG ET L'INDEX DES STATISTIQUES DU CANADA

Données statistiques: L'Index des statistiques du Canada (CSI) constitue une autre source de référence sur les statistiques contenues dans certaines publications indexées dans Microlog. Celles-ci ont un numéro d'ordre spécial qui est inclus dans la référence bibliographique.

Rapports annuels: Afin de rendre le classement des rapports annuels plus facile, le numéro d'ordre CSI correspondant à ces documents figure maintenant dans les références bibliographiques et est inscrit sur les en-têtes de microfiches.

LIVRAISON DE DOCUMENTS

On peut s'abonner à l'ensemble ou à certaines des collections de documents de Microlog. On peut également commander des reproductions de documents sur microfiches ou sur papier par l'intermédiaire du service de livraison de documents de Micromedia. Pour commander, communiquer avec:

Sample CRI Search

“How can a person from a foreign country qualify for refugee status in Canada?”

The researcher can search in CRI as in any library catalogue - by subject, author and title. Because the index is bilingual, searching can be done in English or in French.

Recherche type avec IRC

“Comment une personne d’un pays étranger peut-elle demander le statut de réfugié au Canada?”

La méthode de recherche dans IRC est la même que dans une bibliothèque, puisque les documents sont indexés par auteur, par sujet et par titre. L'index étant bilingue, la consultation peut se faire en français ou en anglais.

STEP 2/DEUXIÈME ÉTAPE

A unified search strategy

The search strategy should include all the monthly issues. Start with the most recent issue and work back. Monthly issues are cumulated annually.

Établir une stratégie de recherche unifiée

La stratégie de recherche doit tenir compte de toutes les publications mensuelles, à commencer par les plus récentes. Chaque année, ces publications font l'objet d'une refonte.

STEP 3/TROISIÈME ÉTAPE

Retrieve the publication

Each bibliographic citation gives a full description of the relevant document. Locate the document by the microfiche number in the library's collection or order from Micromedia. Individual publications are available for purchase on microfiche or paper. The bibliographic description provides publisher source information.

Repérer la publication

Chaque notice bibliographique comprend une description complète du document; celui-ci peut être repéré grâce au numéro de microfiche de la bibliothèque; sinon, il faut le commander à Micromedia. On peut se procurer les monographies sur microfiches ou sur papier. La description bibliographique comporte également des indications sur l'éditeur.

En40-215/19E MICROLOG 94-03785 (1 fiche)

1,1,2,2-tetrachloroethane is not produced in, nor imported into, Canada. It enters the environment as a by-product in wastes generated during production of both vinyl chloride monomer and ethylene dichloride, in air emissions and leachates from waste disposal sites, and as a result of long-range atmospheric transport from other countries. This report provides a summary of information critical to its assessment as toxic, including its identity, properties, production, and uses; entry into the environment; exposure-related and effects-related information; and assessment of toxic in relation to the environment, the environment on which human life depends, and on human life or health. Also includes recommendations.

Cette étude s'inscrit dans le cadre d'un programme fédéral visant à déterminer la distribution des moules zébrées dans le fleuve Saint-Laurent. Ce rapport montre que la distribution des moules est discontinue dans le chenal navigable entre Beauharnois et Baie Saint-Paul. On note deux zones à forte concentration de moules soit dans le port de Montréal et dans le chenal des Grands Voiliers. Cette distribution pourrait s'expliquer par la dérive des larves en provenance des Grands Lacs ainsi que par une autre source de contamination, soit le rejet des eaux de ballast dans un port du fleuve Saint-Laurent probablement celui de Montréal ou de Québec.

Prepared for Transportation Development Centre, Policy and Coordination, Transport Canada ; by Thompson-Hickling Aviation Inc. Ottawa : The Corporation, 1992. xvi, 100 p. : Ill., Bibl.

MICROLOG 94-04075 (2 fiche)

Airport surface monitoring (ASM) refers to the capability of detecting and identifying aircraft, vehicles, mobile equipment, and individuals on and around runways and taxiways of airports. Because ASM is very dependent upon the local environment, the study examines three scenarios of high, medium, and low traffic density at an airport, each of which is examined in the present, future, and research and development cases. The study briefly examines the problem of runway collisions and incursions, then with this as a reference, creates a list of high level ASM operational requirements based on existing documentation and interviews with experts. Specific ASM operational requirements were identified for each scenario and case. A list of systems level specifications were extracted from the operational requirements, and some representative technologies were matched against the requirements to examine their application to ASM.

La Charte des droits des citoyens repose sur quatre grands critères : la qualité, le choix, les normes et la valeur. La qualité se rapporte à un programme intensif d'amélioration de la qualité des services publics. Le choix signifie que, dans la mesure du possible, on recourt à la concurrence pour améliorer la qualité. Les normes se rapportent au principe selon lequel les citoyens et citoyennes doivent connaître les normes relatives au service et être en mesure d'agir quand celui-ci n'est pas acceptable. Enfin, le critère de la valeur désigne le droit des contribuables de recevoir des services publics axés sur la rentabilité et ne gênant pas les finances de l'État. Arctic tanker 80/20 hullform optimisation, vol. III : route conditions

Prepared for the Transportation Development Centre, Policy and Coordination, Transport Canada ; by J.S. McCallum...et al. Ottawa : Canarcilic, 1993. xxl, 96 p. : maps, Bibl., fold. maps MICROLOG 94-03680 (2 fiche)

This project is an important follow-up on the Hullform optimization study in which a tanker hullform was developed for a vessel that would spend 20% of its time in ice and 80% in open water. In this project, the vessel spends 80% of the time in ice and 20% in open water and more stress was placed on optimization on the basis of freight rate and on the hullform being developed in part from the Polar 8 design. The work included conceptual design, costing, and a tracability study using the TRANSIM model. The ship was to transport oil from the Canadian Beaufort Sea westward around Point Barrow and eastward by either the Northern route through Coronation Gulf, Larsen Sound, and Peel Sound. This volume used Canadian and United States charts to review the route of the vessel from Peel Sound/Franklin Strait to Point Barrow, addressing bathymetry, ice regimes, wave data, shallow water effects, evaluation of auxiliary devices, and the expansion TRANSIM model. This manual is a guide to the use of the area-under-the-curve (AUC) software package that can be used to generate estimates of the numbers of salmon escaping marine fisheries to spawn in freshwater streams. The program can also be used to generate residence time estimates when fish have been tagged with externally visible tags and subsequent estimates of tagged fish numbers are available. The AUC software package is designed to calculate escapement estimates using data collected from stratified random, stratified index, simple random, or total stream survey designs. CA CF FI ND SC

This report presents data generated from laboratory studies that examined the behavioural responses of adult sockeye salmon under vertically stratified estuarine conditions, and to short-term exposure to salt water hypoxia within a water column simulator. These conditions simulate those that may be encountered by sockeye in Alberni Inlet, British Columbia. Respiration rates and swimming speeds of individual sockeye were quantified in relation to normoxic and hypoxic conditions under two temperature regimes through the analysis of time-lapse video recordings. Fish behaviour under dusk, dark and dawn light conditions was examined. Hematocrit, leucocrit, plasma chloride, and cortisol determinations were conducted on adult sockeye salmon used in the experiments; length, weight, sex, and gonadal somatic indices were recorded. A fresh water challenge test was undertaken.

This report describes the techniques most likely to be effective for dispersing and deterring birds in the event of an oil spill in the Canadian Beaufort Sea. The report updates the work done by Koski & Richardson (1976) by reviewing international literature on bird deterrent technology and by summarizing what is known about each technique as it relates to the Canadian Beaufort Sea or a similar situation. The potential effectiveness of each of these techniques is then evaluated for five oil spill scenarios, taking into account the species of birds and logistic situation that would be present in each scenario. The five scenarios are: sedge lowlands; oil spill near a seabird colony; oil in bays or lagoons; oil on ice or in leads during spring; and oil spill in an offshore area during the open-water season. mid-to-late summer, when large numbers of sea ducks moult; oil in leads or on sea ice during spring when many spring-migrating waterfowl and other waterbirds travel along and land in leads; and oil in offshore waters during the open-water period. This report presents the results of Task 2 of a rail fracture research program that defines rail critical dynamic fracture load as a function of rail defect size, location and orientation, rail size and metallurgy, ambient temperature, and track stiffness. This was achieved through fracture resistance testing of 18 ft (5.5 m) long defective rails removed from service. The rails were placed in a 25 ft (7.6 m) half track bed located in a cold chamber. This report presents the results of calibrating the 25 ft track bed for dynamic loads. The calibration examined the effects of rail size (weights), type of tie, hammer drop height, hammer weight, and axial force in the rail on the vertical dynamic response of the rail. Also developed was the relationship between the dynamic loads into the rail as measured by a dynamic force measuring load cell (piezoelectric force transducer) and a web-mounted shear gauge arrangement.

As part of the pollution abatement component of the Fraser River Action Plan, an inventory of all combined sewer overflow (CSO) discharges to the Fraser River Basin was conducted. For each CSO located, information is given on the sites, the structures, the overflow volumes, frequencies and quality, the contributing industries, and the receiving environments. The main sources of information were the Greater Vancouver Regional District and the City of Vancouver and no field work was required. This report summarizes the data collected and provides comment on the information and the means of its collection.

This document provides an overview of the biotechnology sector in Denmark, both with regard to public R&D and private enterprise R&D and production. It briefly presents some of the larger Danish biotechnology companies but the emphasis is on the setting in which they operate, stressing the advantages created by the unique agricultural and industrial "complex" in Denmark, the excellent research community, and the public sector which supports and regulates the biotechnological enterprise in Denmark.

En 1987, plusieurs constructeurs de l'Alberta et de la Colombie-Britannique commencent à recevoir de clients des plaintes au sujet de la manifestation de taches noires sur les plaques de plâtre peintes. Au cours des années suivantes, d'autres plaintes en ce sens sont formulées, en provenance d'autres régions du pays. En 1990, le comité de recherche technique de l'ACCH demande à l'Institut de recherche en construction du CNRC, au bureau chargé du Programme d'aide à la recherche industrielle et à la SCHL de découvrir : la cause des taches et la façon dont elles se produisent; pourquoi les taches se produisent; comment les enlever; et comment les éviter. This report gives the findings of Task 2 of a rail fracture resistance research program that defines rail critical dynamic fracture load as a function of rail defect size, location, and orientation, rail size and metallurgy, ambient temperature, and track stiffness. This was achieved through fracture resistance testing of 18 ft (5.5 m) long defective rails removed from service. The rails were placed in a 25 ft (7.6 m) half track bed located in a cold chamber.

The dynamic loads were simultaneously measured using shear gauges located on the rail web and a 200 kip (889.6 kN) impact force transducer.

The paper defines a simple non-deterministic functional language that has definite variables and where function application is unfoldable. This language demonstrates that Sondergaard and Sestoft's claim that in a non-deterministic language both definiteness and unfoldability can be obtained assumes a fairly general notion of non-determinism.

This report presents the results of an intensive research project conducted using a state-of-the-art laser interferometer technique to evaluate the thermally induced convection heat losses in double glazed windows with or without convection suppressor in the air gaps. The project investigated the local and average heat transfer distributions or gain through the horizontal top and bottom end wall surfaces of the air gap to provide accurate information on the temperature and heat transfer; the temperature profiles; the effect of the convection cooling occurring at the top and bottom sections of the window slot on the formation of surface condensation; sections of the window slot; and the elimination of the surface condensation using convection suppressors of different heights. Equations relating the overall convection heat transfer coefficients to heat transmission coefficients are presented and correlation equations of the overall average heat transfer coefficients as a function of Grashof number are developed for vertical surfaces and the two horizontal top and bottom end wall surfaces.

Development of energy effective conceptual towed tug/barge systems

Prepared for Transportation Development Centre, Policy and Coordination, Transport Canada ; by Seatronics Technologies Ltd. Burnaby, BC : The Corporation, 1993. xlii, 186 p. : ill., Bibl. MICROLOG 94-04071 (3 fiche)

Study to design an advanced, hydrodynamically efficient tug/barge transportation system and to examine the desirable characteristics of self-propelled barges compared to conventional towed barges. The barges tested were based on models used in a previous minimum resistance barge study. In the current study, the effect of newly developed Hydralift II Skags on the tug/barge system performance was of primary interest. The study extended the hydrodynamic testing to include a series of barges based on a new bow form from which an optimum, practical barge design was selected; designed a hydrodynamically optimized tug using existing computer methods; studied the effect of towline resistance and towline length on tug/barge system performance; combined the optimal barge, tug, and towline designs to form an optimum energy-efficient tug/barge system to undergo performance testing in an outdoor trials environment; determined the performance and energy effectiveness of a self-propelled barge; and compared the energy effectiveness of the optimum tug/barge system with that of the self-propelled barge.

The results of a previous study of pillar design methods used in evaporite mines left considerable uncertainty regarding the theoretical foundation for current design practices. This work is intended to provide some of that foundation by presenting results of numerical stress analyses of pillars having different width to height ratios. From these analyses, relationships between pillar geometry, salt strength, and pillar load capacity are interpreted. The resulting equations are compared to the data base of pillar designs from the previous study and recommendations made regarding suitable design strategies.

Owing to the small size of its crab catch, Quebec has little influence on outside markets, but it exports close to 90 percent of its production. The various players in the Quebec crab industry are thus very much affected by supply and demand on world markets. The purpose of this report is to inform those involved in the Quebec fishing industry of the situation of the crab fishery. This report discusses world crab markets and the crab fishing and processing industries.

This study surveyed Matchedash Bay, Hog Bay, and Penetang Bay of Severn Sound in Georgian Bay, and the Bay of Quinte and Hamilton Harbour in Lake Ontario for total phosphorus, contaminant loads, and habitat alteration. Biomass was correlated with seasonal mean total phosphorus concentrations. Information on community fish biomass provided information on both the relative health of the ecosystems and on productivity.

There has been some concern recently that herbicide treatments tend to promote fireweed influx and that this influx negates the growth benefits from these treatments by suppressing the planted trees. Two plantations in the Neplisiguit's licence area that had been treated with Vision in 1987 and showed a heavy influx of fireweed were chosen, along with a similar plantation as a control. All three of the plantations were site prepared by a C & H plow and planted with black spruce paper pot. Vision was applied to two of the areas two years after crop establishment and the control area will be treated three years after establishment. As a supplement to the study, the fireweed portion was extracted from the pre and post spray operation survey data collected from all 1985 and 1986 plantations that were treated with herbicide in 1987. A total of 75 plantations spread through eight of the 10 licensees were surveyed.

Electrocoagulation has been used for water treatment without a complete knowledge of the actual mechanism of operation. Process upssets occurring daily in a water treatment operation made it imperative to understand the actual mechanism of operation. This study determined the actual mechanism of operation by studying the electrokinetics of highly concentrated model clay, and process clay suspensions, both before and after electrocoagulation. Both electrokinetic sonic amplitude and microelectrophoresis techniques were used for measuring the charge on treated and untreated dispersions, together with controls. Scanning electron microscopy was used to determine whether aluminum ions were released onto latex and process clays. CA CM ND PS SC

One paper analyzes the details of the argument to explain that apparently slight changes in the operation of an income-contingent loan program could easily imply radically different results. The other paper makes the case that the general effort to supplant the current loan regime by a more ambitious one is fundamentally flawed.

Ce rapport constitue l'une des publications que le gouvernement du Canada a fait préparer sur la question du Marché européen unique. Il reflète les recherches et les analyses de l'un des groupes de travail interministériels qui ont été établis à la demande du ministère des Affaires extérieures et du Commerce extérieur afin d'évaluer la législation que la Communauté européenne a mise en place pour assurer l'achèvement de son marché intérieur. Le document se penche précisément sur les points suivants : liens économiques entre le Canada et les Communautés européennes dans le secteur des minéraux et des métaux; aperçu des obstacles traditionnels aux échanges commerciaux et aux investissements; aperçu des problèmes liés aux matières premières; et résumé des directives, des règlements et des politiques des CE et de certains États membres, et leurs répercussions sur le commerce des minéraux et des métaux et les investissements dans ce secteur.

Phase II of a study to evaluate proposed technologies whereby winter coldness in Canada could be applied during the summer months. The investigation focused on the seasonal storage technologies of ice blocks (use of ice made in an outside insulated room in winter for cooling during the summer); ice ponds (use of ice made in an outside pond in winter for cooling in the summer); and ice bowls (use of waste snow for cooling in the summer). The study compared the three technologies to conventional air conditioning systems.

This report reviews the background concepts, the state of knowledge, methodological rationale, and meaningful indicators of the extent to which community involvement can contribute to the social, emotional, mental, and physical well-being of Canadians. It discusses how to ascertain "control" of one's environment, access to social and support services, participation in recreational activities, opportunities for social networks, and the extent to which local relations cross racial, ethnic, and cultural groups. It also looks at instruments and provides recommendations.

Evaluation of groundwater quality and the performance of waste water treatment systems in an unserviced subdivision near Fredericton, with specific emphasis on the presence of nitrates. A survey form was designed to obtain a history of the water supply and waste water treatment at each site. Samples of water were taken at each site and a pumping test was performed. Water was sampled from the septic tank outlet, the tile field, and at the entrance to each dwelling selected for study and analyzed for nitrate and other selected inorganic species. Samples were also taken from a stream that runs through the area, including both surface and groundwater. An evaluation was carried out of the general flow direction of groundwater in the vicinity of the area.

Within each class, species were compared using seven criteria based on the characteristics for biomonitoring suggested by the International Joint Commission's Ecosystem Objectives Committee. The first four criteria examined the understanding of the biology of the species and the remaining three criteria were used to evaluate the availability of information regarding contaminant levels and effects on wetland species.

Le sous-ministre est l'un des acteurs les plus importants du système politique canadien. Pourtant, ses caractéristiques socio-professionnelles sont mal connues, n'ayant jamais fait l'objet d'une étude systématique. Ce rapport vient combler cette lacune, en décrivant, époque par époque, l'évolution du profil d'origine, du profil de carrière et du profil politique des 320 sous-ministres qui se sont succédé à la tête des ministères et des organismes centraux du gouvernement fédéral depuis le premier jour de la Confédération jusqu'à la fin du premier mandat du Premier ministre Mulroney. Une telle étude a nécessité la constitution d'une vaste banque de données curriculaires, rassemblée aujourd'hui des ministères et à même un ensemble de sources documentaires : almanach, annuaires, etc. CA ND PA SS

Much of traditional artificial intelligence exemplifies the "explicit representation" paradigm and during the late 1980s a heated debate arose between the classical and connectionist camps as to whether beliefs and rules receive an explicit or implicit representation in human cognition. In a recent paper, Kirsh (1990) questions the coherence of the fundamental distinction underlying this debate. This paper examines Kirsh's claims. It proposes definitions for 'explicit' and 'implicit' that preserves most of the strong intuitions concerning straightforward uses of these terms. It also argued that this distinction sustains the meaningfulness of the debate between classicists and connectionists.

This study assessed the type and numbers of safety rest areas, or service areas, that should be provided to users of the province's arterial highway system. To collect and synthesize relevant information on existing facilities in New Brunswick and safety rest area programs elsewhere, a major consultative program and literature survey was undertaken. Analysis of highway characteristics, traffic and user attributes, and policy considerations was undertaken and a plan was developed that includes maintenance and operating costs and monitoring and general implementation guidelines.

Limnetic and littoral fish populations were biomass-sampled during 1991 and 1992 using mid-water trawls, beach seines, variable mesh gillnets, and gear minnow traps from the sockeye nursery lakes of the Nass River watershed. The sampled lakes included Bonney, Bowser, Damdochax, Dragon, Fred Wright, Halfway, Kwinageeese, Lava, and Mezadlin. After at least one month of preservation, individual fish from sample collections were processed and measured for species, length, and weight. Summary statistics were calculated for lengths and weights by species, and length frequencies were plotted by survey (date and lake) and species.

The Greater Vancouver region is located at the southwest corner of the British Columbia Mainland. The Greater Vancouver Regional District occupies 2,930 square kilometres at the mouth of the Fraser River. Its setting, combined with its situation as the key coastal port for western Canada and its history, results in an interesting mix of large and small communities. This document describes the Greater Vancouver Metropolitan Area. It presents an economic overview of the region, and describes the business activity in the Vancouver Census Metropolitan Area and the people of the region. It looks at the Greater Vancouver Municipalities and provides municipal profiles.

Cet ouvrage permet aux gestionnaires ainsi qu'aux étudiants en systèmes d'information, en informatique de gestion et en administration d'approfondir la problématique de l'informatisation dans les PME. En guise d'introduction, on propose une synthèse qui situe le rôle de l'informatique dans la gestion des organisations en précisant les principaux concepts qui y sont rattachés. Ce texte est suivi de cas réels d'informatisation dans douze PME québécoises. Ceux-ci décrivent une variété de situations organisationnelles et illustrent divers aspects de la problématique du développement et de l'utilisation de systèmes d'information à base d'ordinateur.

By J.I. Gow. Ottawa : Canadian Centre for Management Development, 1991. xv, 35 p. : Bibl.
MICROLOG 94-03511 (1 fiche)

The public service is increasingly asked to be innovative. To innovate is, almost by definition, a good thing in society. This paper looks at the nature of innovations, and how and why they occur. It stresses the importance of understanding the processes by which innovations are spread and the context within which they are adopted. In conclusion, it considers the question of innovation in the public service of Canada from the perspectives of institutional arrangements, people, and values. It asks the question "Innovation for what?"

A Logical semantics for depth-first prolog with ground negation

By J. Andrews. Burnaby, BC : Simon Fraser University, Centre for Systems Science ; Laboratory for Computer and Communications Research, 1993. 40 p. : III. Bibl. (Technical report / Simon Fraser University. Centre for Systems Science ; CSS/LCCR TR93-10) MICROLOG 94-03622 (1 fiche) (Available on fiche only)

Sometimes it is possible to take a seemingly non-logical feature of a logic programming system and give it a more logical interpretation by extending the traditional notions of semantics. In this paper, the results are made more abstract and extended to a system having a form of negation as failure.

The main new elements added are a fourth truth value (to go with true, false, and undefined) and a set of special constants that act as a logical analogue of free variables. The paper also contains the clearest description so far of a style of semantics called congruent that was latent in the proof-theoretic descriptions of And90 and And91 and was developed further in And92. The general method behind this semantics is to characterize a restricted class of query/program pairs with a compositional, logical valuation function, and then to characterize wider classes of queries and programs with the use of congruences (syntactically compositional equivalence relations) between formulas.

La Garde côtière canadienne est en voie d'adopter un programme de maintenance prédictive en vue de réduire les coûts d'exploitation et d'accroître la fiabilité de la machinerie de ses navires. À l'appui de cette initiative, le Centre de développement des transports de Transports Canada a confié à Gas-TOPS Ltd. la tâche de définir les besoins concernant un logiciel d'analyse des performances et de faire l'étude conceptuelle d'un système intégrant les divers outils prédictifs à mettre en oeuvre. Le contractant a mené des entrevues pour recenser les besoins, fait la description de la machinerie équipant un navire de la Garde côtière et effectué un tour d'horizon des technologies existantes pouvant servir à une analyse des performances. Ces démarches ont débouché sur une définition du logiciel d'analyse des performances (PASS) envisagé. Une recherche et une étude des produits sur le marché ont été faites afin de repérer et d'évaluer ceux qui correspondent avec ou sans modification aux caractéristiques exigées pour le système PASS.

This report describes the survey methods, results, and analysis of littoral macrophyte surveys conducted in the Bay of Quinte, Hamilton Harbour, and Severn Sound from 1988-91. The transects surveyed were selected from a large set of electro-fishing transects and the macrophyte surveys were done to provide quantitative measures of fish habitat. Different survey methods were used at different times. The report describes the abundance and compositions of macrophytes in the three Areas of Concern and reports comparisons between survey methods and between years.

As part of British Army reforms in the 19th century, regimental schoolmasters presented evening lectures to the troops during the long winter months. The body responsible for British Army schools, libraries and reading rooms in the 1860s, encouraged lectures and supplied equipment for the lecture programs wherever British regiments served. This document looks at magic lantern shows and the British Army, and specifically focuses on lecture material in the Halifax Garrison in the 1860s.

Managing public sector divestment

By T. Hafsi and J.J. Jorgensen. Ottawa : Canadian Centre for Management Development, 1992. xlii, 91 p. : Bibl. MICROLOG 94-03513 (2 fiche)

This study on divestment should help practitioners to understand better cause-and-effect relationships in complex organizational processes. It suggests that when uncertainty and ambiguity are the norm, the process of strategy is as important as content. It emphasizes the importance of the "soft" processes of building commitment and consensus among all stakeholders on divestment decisions. It offers advice to managers involved in divestments and draws out implications for others involved in policy making and the management of complex organizations.

This project was designed as the first phase in a long-term effort to explore the problem of the impact of information on development. A computer conference conducted a systematic analysis of the benefits likely to be associated with investments in the information infrastructure and information activities in general, then identified meaningful indicators by which those benefits and their impact could be measured. The outcome of the computer conference was reviewed at a workshop attended by a few of the participants from the conference and a number of policymakers and practitioners, mostly from developing countries. They examined the validity and applicability of the theoretical models and assessment methods and formulated a comprehensive framework for field-testing the results in developing countries.

Detailed descriptions are provided for evaluating models of the environmental impact of organic loadings from fish farms. These include evaluating the carbon budgets for different kinds of feed and different food conversion ratios, estimating the benthic deposition of organic particulate matter under and near fish cages, estimating the total nutrient loadings in an inlet on the basis of total fish production, and determining the oxygen demand due to fish farming. Detailed examples are included of increased organic matter loading; and estimates of the oxygen demand due to fish farming and the total nutrient loadings in an inlet based on total fish production. Detailed examples are included from salmon net-pen aquaculture sites in Maine.

Study to develop a two-phase monitoring program to measure the cumulative environmental effects in the Niagara Escarpment Plan Area and to provide the environmental information necessary to determine the extent to which the objectives of the Plan are being achieved. The monitoring system will monitor the state and functioning of the ecosystems throughout the length of the Niagara Escarpment and environs; assess the short and long-term effects of the Plan policies; and provide the environmental data in a form that can be used by all those responsible for management decisions affecting the Escarpment environment and to support policy changes through Plan Amendments and future plan reviews. This report provides background information on the monitoring plan and the area; concepts and definitions; approaches for monitor-

The ecomorphological characteristics of 52 fish species commonly found in Ontario lakes were documented in Portt (1988). This study provides the same information for an additional 25 fish species found in three Great Lakes' Areas of Concern: Hamilton Harbour and the Bay of Quinte on Lake Ontario, and Severn Sound on Georgian Bay. and the previous data compilation will allow testing of a broad hypothesis that postulates the use of quantitative indices based on ecomorphometric, life history, and trophic characteristics to predict the abundance and composition of fish assemblages in Ontario's freshwaters after consideration of abiotic factors. In this report, the analysis focuses on the consistency of species grouping, or guilding.

Le ministère des Ressources naturelles et de l'Energie rembourse les travaux de nettoyage des plantations aux titulaires de permis de la Couronne au taux normal de la coupe d'éclaircie précommerciale depuis 1988. On soupçonne que le nettoyement des plantations à l'aide de scies à débroussailleur puisse représenter un travail plus facile et entraîner ainsi une productivité supérieure, ce qui pourrait justifier un taux de remboursement inférieur. Des études ont été entreprises pour enquêter sur cette hypothèse pendant l'été et l'automne de 1990 et de 1991. Ce document en présente les résultats.

By L.G. Swain. Victoria : BC Environment, Water Management Division, 1987. 15 p. : Bibl. Technical appendix (42 p.) laid in ISBN 0-7726-1610-8

Cahill Creek is a tributary to the Similkameen River, entering it from the northeast just downstream from Hedley. The water quality of the creek could be affected by a proposed gold mine and mill complex through release of contaminants such as heavy metals, suspended solids, and cyanide. Two tributaries join Cahill Creek in its upper reaches, Nickel Plate Mine Creek and Sunset Creek. A water quality assessment of Cahill Creek, Nickel Plate Mine Creek and Sunset Creek, and Red Top Gulch Creek, was undertaken to develop water quality objectives in areas of the system where designated water may be threatened. This report describes the hydrology, water uses, waste discharges, and water quality, and provides provisional water quality objectives and monitoring recommendations.

On some path problems on oriented hypergraphs

The BF-graphs form a particular class of Directed Hypergraphs. For this important family, different applications are known in data bases and artificial intelligence domain. They may also be used to describe the behaviour of concurrent systems. This paper presents a theoretical analysis of several hyperpath problems in BF-graphs, with emphasis on the acyclic BF-graphs. After briefly exposing the basic concepts of directed hypergraphs, the paper presents an algorithm for finding a BF-path, discusses the problem of finding a hyperpath cover, and presents a polynomial solution for two constrained hyperpath problems.

The park visitor survey is a continuation of a series of surveys since 1982. Functioning as a park report card, the survey provides a large sample of visitors the opportunity to express their opinions on the quality of park services and facilities, as well as the staff who serve them. The survey also provides insight into what existing services and facilities are most important to visitors and what new features are desired. The following report summarizes the latest year's survey responses made by park users (transient campers, seasonal campers, day users and cottagers). The results are followed by a recommendations section which identifies issues that should be investigated and/or actioned by program managers and field staff. Appendices are included presenting a summary of respondents written comments corresponding to various survey questions, and the survey questionnaire.

Many crystalline materials of interest to the Canadian Nuclear Program have the potential to undergo phase transitions in their range of application. During such phase transitions, a representation of the space group of the higher symmetry polymorph softens to induce the transition. This report is the first in a series of reports concerned with the group-theoretic properties of phase transitions in crystalline materials. The research identified all spectroscopically-active soft modes for the 230 three-dimensional space groups. This report reviews the group-theoretic properties of crystal structures and phase transitions and derives the automorphism groups of the crystallographic and icosahedral point groups using a consistent presentation.

Over the past 20 years, phosphorus inputs to the Okanagan Valley lakes have affected water quality. The economic value of this water resource is high and a considerable effort has already been made to maintain a good level of water quality. This report analyses the present situation and investigates new ways of controlling phosphorus inputs in the future. It also provides water quality objectives for Ellison, West Kelowna, Okanagan, Skaha, and Osoyoos Lakes.

Le phtalate de dioctyle, l'ester dioctylque de l'acide phthalique, n'est pas produit au Canada. Cependant, environ une tonne de ce produit y est utilisée chaque année. Le phtalate de dioctyle a été décelé à l'occasion dans des effluents liquides industriels et dans des boues d'épuration au Canada et moins fréquemment dans des eaux de surface et dans des sédiments. Ce document présente un sommaire des informations essentielles pour l'évaluation de la toxicité; l'évaluation de la toxicité au sens de la Loi canadienne sur la protection de l'environnement; et, les recommandations pour la recherche et l'évaluation.

Papers covering the physical simulation of welding, hot forming, and continuous casting operations by various techniques including torsion testing, cam plastometry, and Gleeble testing, and the thermal/mechanical simulation of any of these processes. In welding, this includes HAZ simulation and hot cracking susceptibility. In hot forming, it includes physical simulation to determine material hot forming behaviour, and physical simulation of industrial material forming processes. The continuous casting section covers ways in which simulation techniques have led to a greater understanding of the susceptibility to cracking of the continuous cast product.

This report was prepared as part of the background material for the proposed Forest Practices Code, released in early November 1993, providing an overview of the environmental benefits possible if better forest management practices are adopted. The main focus is on the operational aspects of better forest management practices, and the more balanced benefits that these will yield. Social and economic benefits are not examined. The report briefly examines the issues of science, change, and operational philosophy to give some context, then examines concepts and origins of sustainable development and biodiversity to provide the rationale for better forest management practices. More detail is given for specific operational aspects at both the landscape and stand level.

A Proposed forest practices code for British Columbia background papers : the cost of implementing a proposed forest practices code for British Columbia

By H. Saunders. Victoria : Ministry of Forests, 1993. 86 p. Bound with: Critique of the report 'The cost of implementing a proposed forest practices code for British Columbia'

MICROLOG 94-03736 (2 fiche)

This report was prepared as part of background material for the proposed Forest Practices Code, released in early November 1993. It summarizes various estimates of the direct costs to government and industry of implementing the code. Cost estimates were derived mainly through surveys and interviews, with subsequent review and discussion with oversight groups. The cost of attaining current standards was estimated by comparing costs of selected operations considered closest to current standards with the costs of the average operator. Periodic costs were converted to equivalent annual costs to avoid overstating the significance of initial inventory and training costs. Costs are given overall for government and industry, then by each specific standard.

This paper analyzes classical relaxation methods applied to a number of formulations of a fixed charge multicommodity capacitated network design problem. The methods are compared theoretically on the basis of the relative strength of the relaxations. To assess more precisely the quality of the bounds generated by the various relaxations, feasible solutions are obtained via an heuristic based on the resource-decomposition principle. Computational results are presented and analyzed for a large set of test problems.

Pacific herring (Clupea harengus pallasi) migrate to in-shore areas from offshore feeding grounds in the early fall and winter and then hold in sheltered bays and inlets in preparation for spawning in late winter and early spring. During this time, three mafor commercial herring fisheries occur; a food and bait fishery, a sac-roe fishery and a spawn-on-kelp fishery. The food and bait fishery takes place in November/December when the herring first move inshore and the fat content is high, while the sac-roe and spawn-on-kelp fisheries occur in March/April during the spawning season when gonad development is near or at maximum. This report presents the results of these fisheries over the past year. Methodology is included.

Revised site regions of Ontario : concepts, methodology and utility

By D. Burger. Toronto : Ministry of Natural Resources, Ontario Forest Research Institute, 1993. II, 24 p. : Bibl. (Forest research report / Ontario Forest Research Institute ; no. 129 ISSN 0381-3924) ISBN 0-7778-1778-0 MICROLOG 94-03960 (1 fiche)

For the effective management of forest land resources, it is essential to know not only the geographic distribution of these resources, but to appreciate the dynamic relationships among tree species, soil, and climate. Site-regions, as developed for Ontario, provide such an interpretation by focusing on changes in species-site relationships along macroclimatic gradients. This report summarizes, updates, clarifies, and formulates more precisely the underlying concepts of site region; outlines research methods; presents revisions of regional characterizations and of the map of site regions in Ontario; compares these regions with other regional classifications; and outlines the utility of site regions in management and ecological studies.

This paper explores in some detail regional disparities in the price of housing. It explores the theoretical reasons why rates of house price inflation are more likely to vary across regions than those of more tradable goods and services. It provides an overview of regional house price inflation disparities in relation to disparities in the general inflation rate. It also considers the role of regional demand shocks. Finally it ascertains the extent to which regional house prices are influenced by both local and national factors.

The mathematics assessment evaluates achievement in mathematics content and mathematics problem-solving. The knowledge and skills in content are those related to four areas: numbers and operations, algebra and functions, measurement and geometry, and data management and statistics. The second component is the assessment of the students' use of a variety of strategies to solve mathematical problems. This document contains Canada-wide results and results for the provinces. It provides a summary of performance and discusses what the students said about themselves.

Study to relate seasonal fluctuations to soil morphological characteristics and to the soil moisture regimes of some common soils in Nova Scotia. Information was obtained from a collection of soil water table data, using the dipwell method, carried out from 1979-86. Site selection was carried out in conjunction with soil surveys and research projects. The soil was described and sampled for chemical and physical analyses. Sites were mainly forested areas to minimize the risk of vandalism and sites on cleared land were on field edges to minimize interference with machinery. Each of the sites had at least two wells.

Ce document vise à examiner et à évaluer les conférences constitutionnelles dans l'optique de la gestion publique. Comment les objectifs de l'État ont-ils été transformés en réalités, et qu'est-ce que cela a comporté d'un point de vue opérationnel et logistique? Quels ont été les avantages et les inconvénients de l'approche originale adoptée, et quelles leçons a-t-on tirées de l'expérience? La discussion met surtout en lumière la façon dont le Secrétariat des conférences constitutionnelles, créé expressément pour assurer le succès de ces échanges, a réussi sa mission : atteindre les objectifs du gouvernement.

This publication offers some guidelines for the Canadian business manager who is considering entering the United States market by appointing a manufacturers' agent. Its purpose is to help prospective Canadian exporters answer three questions: What are your company's goals in the United States market? How can you locate a U.S. sales agent or agency appropriate for the needs of your manufacturing firm? And how can you support the activities of your sales agent or agency after the contract is signed?

The study presents a model used to discover the impact of the international events, with baseline and four scenarios. The scenarios analyze the impact of the opening of the Mexican pork market, a significant reduction in European Community pork exports, a 60% decline in Eastern Europe exports of processed pork, and a 33% reduction in the Japanese pork support price. Results of the scenario combinations are presented along with other factors influencing U.S. self-sufficiency in pork.

L'objectif principal de l'étude est d'évaluer le degré d'asymétrie des chocs affectant un ensemble de huit pays européens susceptibles de former le noyau d'une éventuelle union monétaire. Étant donné que la mesure qui importe le plus est le degré d'asymétrie des chocs réels, notre approche consiste à utiliser les fluctuations observées des taux de change réels comme un indicateur du degré d'asymétrie des chocs et d'en extraire les composantes réelles (qui sont permanentes) et les composantes nominales (qui sont transitoires) par le biais de l'information contenue dans les variations du taux de change nominal.

Licensees of Crown land are currently reimbursed based on the costs associated with a 1982 pre-commercial thinning program conducted by the province with rates being adjusted annually by an inflation factor. A study was initiated in 1985 and continued in 1986 to determine if the reimbursement rates being paid are fair. One hundred and two saw operators, thinning to favour softwoods, were studied in pre-thinned densities ranging from 8,000 to 62,000 stems per ha in areas located throughout New Brunswick. Productivity of thinners was determined by calculating the amount of

Of late, the role of the deputy minister has been influenced by a changing management philosophy. The emphasis on hierarchy and the division of functions is being replaced by a more dynamic model that stresses leadership and the decentralization of functions. Based on a series of interviews, this paper examines the response of federal deputy ministers to this new management dynamic. The study concludes by emphasizing the need for greater emphasis, in management development, on management skills rather than policy experience. #### Vancouver Island land use plan

Victoria : Commission on Resources and Environment, 1994. 2 v. : ill., maps. Fold. map not filmed. Contents: Vol. I : Overview - vol. II : Appendices. ISBN 0-7726-2036-9. MICROLOG 94-03925 (5 fiche)

This report recommends a land use plan for Vancouver Island. It recommends broad-scale land use designations, an economic transition strategy, and directions for implementation and monitoring. Refinement and management of the plan are to take place at sub-regional and local levels, with public participation and negotiation with First Nations. This document describes purpose and design of regional planning negotiations. Past and present biophysical characteristics, social and economic characteristics, resource uses, sustainability concerns, and land use conflicts are covered next. The following chapter describes aboriginal rights, and then the land use negotiation table. Finally, the present and proposed land uses are presented with economic and social impacts and an economic transition strategy. Recommendations, and the land use charter and goals conclude the volume. Detailed maps are provided and a second volume gives relevant appendices.

Summary of the washability study conducted under the Coal Quality project that investigated and interpreted characteristics of British Columbia coals to provide a geological basis of washability and to gain practical information that would be useful in processing and utilization of these coals. Washability characteristics of many coal seams from various B.C. coalfields were examined for their yield of clean coal and amount of near-gravity material close to the density of separation for desired clean coal product. Comparisons were made between seams from different coalfields, geological formations, and lithotypes within the same coal seam. Unconventional washability parameters, such as degree of washing and washability number, were also calculated and compared.

What makes public management unique? What are the factors that influence the decision making of public managers, and how are they different from those that influence decision making within the private sector? How does the overall credo of "serving the public interest" affect what public managers do? These are the key questions that lie at the basis of this study in which it is proposed that the character of public management in any country is shaped by three groups or "families" of determinants: the role of government; the institutions of governance; and the environments in which government functions.

Rapidly developing technologies in plant molecular biology and cell biology have created the possibility of introducing novel genes into crop plants to affect specific agronomic traits. Wheat is one of the most important food crops in the world and it can be anticipated that genetic engineering to affect quality, productivity, or sustainability will have a significant impact on agricultural economics. The development of transformation systems for the gramineous cereals has been particularly difficult because Agrobacterium-mediated gene transfer is not applicable. This review describes progress with methods of direct DNA delivery to cereals; evaluates the evidence for claims of integration of foreign genes into the plant genome; and discusses the potential of developing tissue culture independent transformation systems to eliminate somaclonal damage and to provide genotype independent technology applicable directly to elite cultivars.

While offshore exploration and shipping activities are affected by the climate conditions in the area, an accurate description of the operating environment allows ships and other marine structures to operate safely. This study was initiated to develop a wind and wave climate atlas for Canadian waters of the East Coast, the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the Great Lakes, and the West Coast. The project collected, consolidated, and presented the existing environmental data in a format that could be used to assess the strength and operational requirements of vessels and other marine structures for operation in these regions. This volume covers Canadian waters to 200 miles offshore on the West Coast, divided into seven subareas that follow marine forecasting areas closely. The atlas covers those waters beyond the depth contour of approximately 50-100 m following the shorelines of Vancouver Island, the Charlottes and the Islands bordering Hecate Strait but not those between the mainland and Vancouver Island.

The objectives of this study were to evaluate the economic, demographic and public policy factors as they relate to housing activity in the Yukon; to identify current housing market activity in the Yukon, noting key trends as well as market and non-market factors that influence the demand and supply for housing; and to develop a housing market forecast for the Yukon, encompassing the period from 1992 to 1995 based on anticipated changes in the external and internal environment. This report presents the key findings of this study.
